Academic Robes and Regalia

(Text courtesy of Brian Doyle and Marcus Covert)

The history of academic dress dates back to the Middle Ages when many of the scholars were also clerics and wore the robes of their monastic orders. In 1321, the University of Cambridge adopted specific styles and color combinations for its faculties. American colleges and universities desired to adopt a standard code of academic dress. At a conference held at Columbia University in 1895, representatives from various institutions adopted a code and regulations governing academic dress for colleges and universities in the United States. The standards continue to be followed by the American Council on Education.

The regalia worn today are traditional, and their colors, trimmings, and patterns represent the degree, the field of learning, and the institution which conferred that degree. The bachelor's gown has long pointed sleeves and designed to be worn closed; the master's gown has an oblong sleeve open at the wrist. The rear part of the oblong shape is square cut, and the front part has an arc cut away. The doctor's gown has bell-shaped sleeves, is faced with velvet, and has three bars across the sleeves. The color of the velvet is distinctive to the degree.

The hood also tells a story. The type of degree (Bachelor's, Master's, Doctor's) is indicated by the width of the velvet edging and the length of the hood, the doctor's hood being the longest and of a fuller shape than the others. The color of the velvet edging indicates the field of learning, and the colors of the lining designate the school which conferred the degree. The color of the tassel, worn on the left side of the mortarboard, also indicates the field of study and is gold for those with doctor's degrees.

The colors you will see today in the hoods and gowns of our faculty represent the various fields of learning:

Arts, Letters, Humanities: White

Certification of the conferral of a degree is by receipt of a diploma or official transcript noting degree completion, not necessarily participation in the commencement ceremony.

In keeping with Southern Oregon University's commitment to environmental responsibility and sustainability, this booklet is printed on at-least 30% recycled paper. Today's graduates are wearing robes that incorporate sustainable resources. Drinking water is available before and during the ceremony at a number of water stations. Please use reusable containers where you can and put your trash in the appropriate bin. Your participation in helping lower our environmental impact is appreciated!

SOU students have coordinated a program to collect commencement gowns at the end of this ceremony to be reused next year by graduates in need. Graduates, if you do not wish to keep your gown, please donate it to one of the collection stations after the ceremony. The stations are located at the stadium exits and at the Ecology and Sustainability Resource Center office in the Stevenson Union basement.

G R A D U A T E S

We hope that you will strongly consider staying until the end. Congratulations!
